

Collaboration in action:

Partnering with the NHS to support national healthcare priorities

Health inequalities in the UK are shaped by multiple factors:¹

Variable access to health services

Delays in diagnosis and early intervention

Environmental and social factors
across communities

References

1. NHS England. What are healthcare inequalities? Available from: <https://www.england.nhs.uk/about/equality/equality-hub/national-healthcare-inequalities-improvement-programme/> [Accessed: May 2026]

Tackling health inequalities requires new approaches
beyond the NHS

 NOVARTIS

In 2021, Novartis UK launched its health inequalities pledge:

A multi-year commitment

Work in collaboration with partners from across the healthcare ecosystem

To accelerate collective action on tackling health inequalities

We will work together to enable quicker diagnosis and earlier intervention for those most at risk

 NOVARTIS

Beyond direct clinical collaboration:

Partnering with Our Future Health, the UK's largest health research programme

Working with the Royal Society of Medicine, ABPI, and the NHS to help scale initiatives that reduce health inequalities

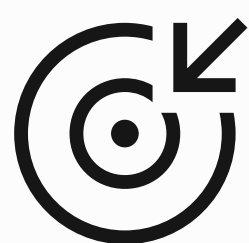

Supporting access to trusted health information through Patient Information Forum TICK certification

South East London cardiovascular project:^{2,3}

Addressed a 13 year life expectancy gap
across local communities

Identified and supported people at highest cardiovascular risk

3,000+ tests delivered and
2,000+ people engaged

Improved early detection, health literacy and access to care

References

2. Novartis Pharmaceuticals UK. Health Inequalities. Available from:
<https://www.novartis.com/uk-en/esg/health-inequalities> [Accessed: May 2026]
3. Kings Health Partners. Tackling inequalities in cardiovascular health with new Novartis partnership. Available from:
<https://www.kingshealthpartners.org/latest/tackling-inequalities-cardiovascular-health-new-novartis-partnership>
[Accessed: May 2026]

Committed to reducing health inequalities across the UK